

August 2026: Closing Compliance Gaps, Designing for Access & a New Digital Launch

Aug 31, 2026

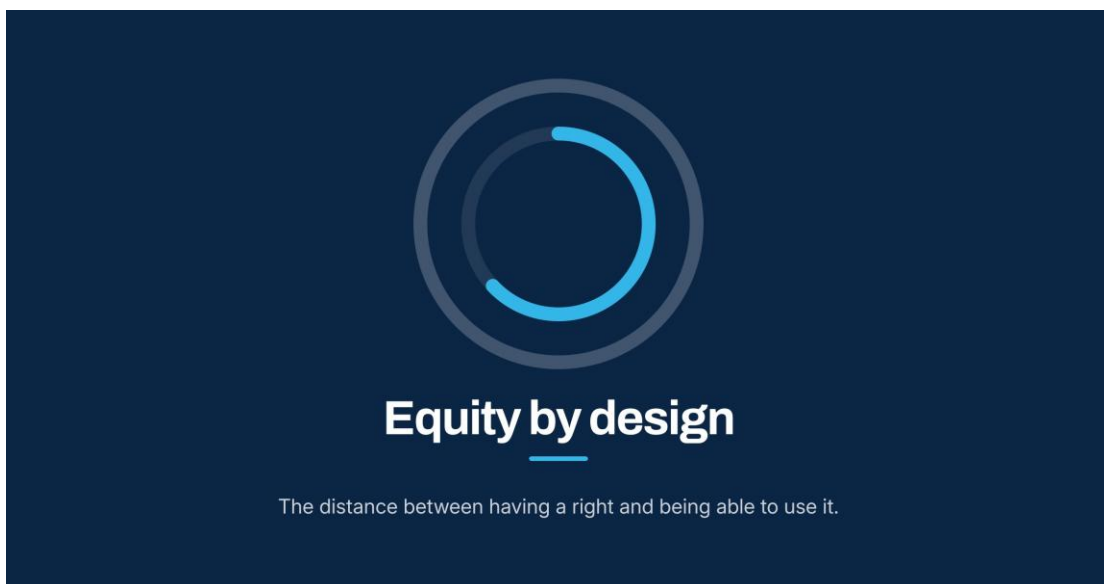

Your audit report shouldn't live in a shared folder

An audit tells you what needs to change. Making the change stick is the harder part — and it's where most organizations lose ground, addressing the same findings audit after audit. The gap usually isn't effort; it's that compliance still runs on spreadsheets, email approvals, and manual tracking. Digital workflows move it into daily operations, where it holds.

A right you can't use isn't access

Women's Equality Day marks a legal right that took decades to become a usable one. That gap has a modern form: a court portal or benefits application can be fully available in the legal sense and out of reach in the practical one. A name change that breaks record matching, a session that times out mid-form, instructions that assume you already know the vocabulary — small decisions that quietly decide who gets served.

Two new websites.
One stronger digital presence.

We recently helped AV-Tech launch two new websites for its growing business — AV-Tech Media Solutions and AV-Tech Event Production.

The two sites give each side of the business its own clear digital presence while making it easier for customers to understand the full range of AV-Tech's capabilities.

AV-Tech Media Solutions focuses on helping organizations simplify AV complexity through expert consulting, scalable workspace solutions, and proactive managed AV services. From aligning AV systems with business goals to creating reliable, easy-to-manage technology and ongoing support, the site brings AV-Tech's approach to enterprise AV into clearer focus.

The Event Production site highlights AV-Tech's capabilities across live, virtual, and hybrid events.

Together, the two websites create a clearer, more modern digital experience that helps customers understand AV-Tech's solutions and find the right support for their needs.

A successful launch that makes AV-Tech’s expertise, solutions, and support easier to understand.
